MOODY DEAD.

Greatest of All Evangelists Passes Away Dec. 22.

Stricken in Kansas City After Preaching to 15,000 People The Night Before.

East Northfield, Mass.—Dwight L. Moody, the famous evangelist, died at noon to-day. Mr. Moody returned home a few weeks ago from Kansas City, where a heart affection forced him to discontinue his preaching. It was hoped rest would restore his health, but in spite of temporary favorable symptoms he grew steadily worse until the end came to-day.

He preached his last sermon on Thursday night, November 16, fully 15,000 people listening to an earnest appeal that many stamped as one of the evangelists greatest efforts. He was stricken the next morning at his hotel, but laughingly declared he was all right and that he would be able to preach that afternoon.

He grew worse gradually, however, and it was deemed best to start him for his home the next day, although his physician stated Mr. Moody's condition was not necessarily serious.

Dwight Lyman Moody was born in Northfield, Mass., February 5, 1837. He worked on a farm until he was seventeen years old, when he became a clerk in a Boston shoe store. After joining the Congregational church he went to Chicago and began missionary work among the poor with great success. During the civil war he was employed by the Christian Commission. Later a church was built for him in Chicago for his converts. The edifice together with Mr. Moody's home, was destroyed by the fire of 1871.

In 1873, Mr. Moody, who by this time was famous as a lay missionary, accompanied Ira D. Sankey to Europe. They instituted week-day religious services in England, Scotland and Ireland, arousing great enthusiasm. Returning to this country the evangelists continued their work. In many large cities they conducted immense revival meetings. Their work was not confined to the United States, but took them frequently to the British Isles. Mr. Moody was a strong, impressive speaker, and his efforts everywhere were invariably crowned with success.

Mr. Moody was well known in Louisville. His first visit there was in 1888, when he conducted a full revival meeting at the tabernacle built for the purpose on Broadway, between Fourth and Fifth. He was last there two years ago at the Auditorium.

Brame had closed the house and gone to a neighbor's, and when the flames were discovered they had made such headway that nothing could be saved. It is not known just how the fire originated. His loss is about $200. There was no insurance.

BURGLARS BREAK

Open Judge Savage's Store—Considerable Goods Taken.

Burglars made a haul on J. T. Savage on last Thursday night. They broke one of the panes of glass in a front window, thus effecting an entrance, and carried off a lot of old Virginia Cheroots, some cigars and other smoker's goods, besides numerous other articles of value. The cash-drawer was prized open, but no cash was found. The matter was placed in the hands of the police and the thieves may yet be brought to justice.

THIRTY DAYS EACH.

Boys Got Their Christmas Gift Ahead of Time.

Caused By Pneumonia.

John Bell, a colored man who lived on the Clarksville pike, near the city limits, died of pneumonia, aged 40 years.

Sick Women Advised to Seek Advice of Mrs. Pinkham.

"I had inflammation and swelling of the womb, and inflammation of ovaries, and was in great pain. I took medicine prescribed by a physician, but it did me no good. At last I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after using it faithfully I am thankful to say I am well women. I would advise all suffering women to seek advice of Mrs. Pinkham."—Mrs. G. H. CHAPPELL, GRANT PARK, ILL.

"For several years my health was miserable. I suffered the most dreadful pains, and was almost on the verge of insanity. I consulted one of the best physicians in New York, and he pronounced my disease a fibroid tumor, advising an operation without delay, saying that it was my only chance for life. Other doctors prescribed strong and violent medicine, and one said I was incurable, another told me my only salvation was galvanic batteries, which I tried, but nothing relieved me. One day a friend called and begged me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began its use and took several bottles. From the very first bottle there was a wonderful change for the better. The tumor has disappeared entirely and my old spirits have returned. I heartily recommend your medicine to all suffering women."—Mrs. VAN CLEEF, 410 BROADWAY AVE., JAMES CITY HEIGHTS, N. Y.

BRUTAL ASSAULT

Made on Ermine Johnson by a Murderous Negro.

Frank Kenner in Jail Charged With the Crime The Boy's Death Almost Certain.

A murderous assault was made Thursday evening about six o'clock upon a white boy named Ermine Johnson, by Frank Kenner, a burly negro. The boy's injuries are almost necessarily fatal. Johnson is a son of J. T. Johnson, who lives on North Virginia street. He is about 16 years old and on Thursday after returning from work took his father's to water-in company with his younger brother. As they returned from the river and were preparing to milk the cows in the alley two negroes passed by and one of them kicked one of the cows. The older boy remonstrated with him and one of the negroes with an oath picked up a heavy piece of slate coal and struck the boy a murderous blow on the head. Johnson sank senseless to the ground and the negroes took to their heels. The younger boy who was in the lot ran to his brother's assistance and found Ermine lying on the ground. He called for help and the neighbors appeared and took the wounded boy in charge. Drs. Jackson and Reynolds were sent for and found the boy's injuries very dangerous, if not mortal.

His skull was crushed and it was found necessary to remove a piece two inches square.

Browder Campbell and Tom Pendleton, two negroes were arrested the same night and placed in jail. The boy thought Campbell was the man who struck him, but was not positive about it. On Saturday Frank Kenner and Will Talley were arrested and Kenner confessed that he was the guilty party.

Yesterday morning Campbell and Pendleton were released and Kenner was held over by Judge Leavelle and the trial set for Wednesday. Talley is also in jail charged with being an accomplice.

Kenner says he came by and the boy cursed him and he in turn struck him. Those who know Johnson say this is not in accordance with the moral and peaceable habits of the youth. Johnson was still living yesterday, but his death is expected at any moment. His pulse was only 60 and there is not one chance in ten for his recovery.

Surprises His Congregation.

Princeton, Ky., Dec. 25.—Rev. Charles Nourse, pastor of the Southern Presbyterian church in this city, offered his resignation to take effect immediately. It came in the nature of a surprise to the church, as his pastoral year does not expire until July.

CHILD'S HORRIBLE DEATH.

Inhaled Flames and Running Out of House Fell Dead.

A little four-year-old son of Prof. Joseph V. Chan, the colored teacher, met a horrible death Friday evening. The child had a towel tied around its neck and while playing near the fire the cloth caught and he was soon enveloped in flames. The parents were from home and a sister of the little fellow ran out to the gate to give the alarm. The burning child followed, and inhaling the blaze, fell dead at the gate.

FOUND DEAD.

Evidences of Having Come In Contact With an Engine.

Wallace Bradshaw, a colored man aged 58 years, was found dead by the L. N. track, near the water-tank late Saturday afternoon. His head had been cut and one leg and an arm were broken. He lived in Gainesville and the supposition is that while enroute home he was struck by a train. He was a laborer and frequently worked in the various tobacco warehouses of this city. He leaves a family.

ROUP THEORY

A Writer Who Attributes the Trouble to Filth.

What an inquiry among roup-poultry men as to the cause and cure for roup; there would be no general opinion, it was a scattering opinion. The majority held that it was caused by ill-bred fowls, draughts, dampness, and a multitude of other things all in the line. The majority held a great deal more, for everybody so troubled would have their own infallible cure, and lay an important part of the cure, the knife about as a star role—but the hatchet is ordered by most to be "the star hammer."

Of course, I've been through it everything that can happen to chickens has traveled my way—in fact when I had the most chickens I had the most diversified trouble; there hangs a tale—I don't tell it all—but roup had considerable to do in changing the chicken affairs of poultrydom.

There was a time when, after considerable figuring, you know that I like figuring, I had it all arranged to change the aspect of the poultry market, so took a partner—a male partner—a lusty strong man with a bull head and ox strength, his strength and my brain were to revolutionize matters. I stood the financial strain (strain is the proper word alright), well, I found out a few things before the partnership was dissolved, and among other things I formed a theory as to the origin of roup.

When my partner quit I had an elephant on my hands. Business was pressing at the stock yards, where I learn daily bread, the elephant had to do some hustling for itself. I didn't bustle about, but just layed down. Yes, it died a dirty roup, and death, and it was on such ashes that Mattie and I formed his theory as to the cause of roup. Well, what I say? You won't believe me if I said that I am rather modest, so I won't say it yet—I dread to put myself on record with the many older and doubtless wiser breeders opposing me; yet I don't think that a draught of house ever caused roup if kept clean. I don't think that chickens ever get roup through being out in a shower; but there is a situation which will inevitably cause roup, and it is this: Any house, well built or otherwise, in which the hens have to roost over their own accumulating excretions after night, week after week, month after month, those hens will take roup.

Have you ever put your head in such house the first thing in the morning? If you have, you have encountered a cyclonic stink of such magnitude, that things material did not appeal to your appetite for several hours. Poor lady has had to roost over that mess every night—so at any wonder that in breathing ammonia laden fowl odor that she contracted some trouble with her breathing apparatus, and that her nostrils and eyes become swollen and cinkered? Go into one of these pokey, dirty houses with a spade and undertake cleaning it out, you will then know what I mean.

Hens seldom contract roup in extreme cold weather, it generally shows in the fall when the houses are overstocked with the season's raising; whereas in summer the hens only spend a few hours each night on the roost, in fact a good many of them are in broody coops; therefore the houses do not need quite as much care and cleaning as in the fall when the nights are long, all the hens at roost, besides which all the young stock is crowded on the perches.

Another thing that strengthens my argument somewhat, is that roup, while very prevalent in amateur flocks, seldom visits the big breeding establishments; while the amateur handles his flock "hill or mine," the big breeder whose bread and butter comes from "poultry," systemizes his business and avoids the pitfalls which we small fry constantly tumble into, sometimes through negligence (being too busy at our regular business), sometimes carelessness (do it to-morrow-ness) and occasionally through ignorance. We all know that chickens should be kept clean, and it should be apparent that if not so kept biddy must suffer.

Just imagine a parallel case—ourselves sleeping over our own excrement—we might not take roup, but—the undertaker would take us. I may be wrong in this as a roup theory, but practice what I preach and I know that your flock will be better off.

(This only applies to those who clean up every spring, fall, or occasionally.)—M. W. Baldwin.

An Unbiased Opinion.

It is not necessary to dwell on the merit of the Minorca; there has been enough placed to its credit already, and some have given more credit than belongs to the breed, as regards the size and quality of eggs combined. It has been said that "The Minorca lays the most eggs and the largest eggs of any breed." This is not in accordance with facts. There are others which lay as many as the Minorcas, and there are others which lay as large eggs, but there is not another breed which will lay as many of the same size as the Minorca. Let us state the facts, but it is not necessary to go beyond them.

There has been quite a controversy as to which is the best all-purpose fowl. Some claim one breed and some another. There is not one breed in existence that is better than all other breeds in this respect. There are very many which fill the bill and will suit any one who fancies them. Many of our old standard breeds, and many of the new breeds fill the full measure of the requirements in the hands of a true fancier who admires his own selected kind.

If I were to make a statement as to which was the best all-purpose fowl, if I were to write an article on that subject, it would be very short. I would not claim this for the Minorca, the Plymouth Rock, the Wyandotte or any other breed, because any of them as well as others, would fill the bill; but not exclusively. Right here let me give you an article on this subject, and here it goes: Drop out the small breeds, and then make the selection, no matter which, it is the one you like best. This is my article. If you want tableque; I tell you alone, don't take the Minorcas, because, although they are a first-class table fowl when bred up to the standard, there are others which would serve you better, but if you want a combination of flesh and eggs, with a preponderance of the latter, none will serve you better.—J. V. Bicknell, in American Black Minorca Club Catalogue.

The Grain Fed Hen

must eat one half her weight of grain daily in the winter to be able to lay. What she likes is the egg-making product found in meat. Summer time gives her grasshoppers, bugs and worms to supply her need. The rest of the year she needs what Darling & Co., supply in their Animal Meal & Poultry Foods. You can prove this by trial. If you want your hens to lay eggs when eggs are most scarce, use this great poultry food. Address Darling & Co., Union Stock Yards, Chicago, for their free book, "Fill the Egg Basket."

SIR REDVERS BULLER.

Commander in Chief in South Africa in Twelfth on the list of British Generals.

The list of field marshals in the British army is headed by the queen's cousin, the duke of Cambridge; and her son, the prince of Wales, is second. Her son-in-law, Prince Christian, is among those who hold the rank of general; and her son, the duke of Connaught, is third.

It is needless to say, remarks the Youth's Companion, that not one of these is ever called upon for active service in the field. When there is war, great or small, a trained soldier is chosen, and it is the British policy to give opportunity to as many as possible to distinguish themselves. Lord Wolseley was his repulse in the Ashmun war and in Egypt. Lord Roberts in India and Afghanistan, and Lord Kitchener in the Sudan.

Now the command in South Africa went to Sir Redvers Buller, the twelfth on the list of generals—a man who has been in service in China, in Canada, and in the Ashanti, Kafir and Zulu wars. He can append a long string of letters to his name—"K. C. M. G.," "G. C. R.," and the two magic letters which he doubtless prizes more than all the rest, "V. C."

Mr. Redvers won the Victoria cross by two most conspicuous acts of personal bravery on one day during the Zulul campaign.

He is not a young man, for he has passed his sixtieth birthday. No is he a popular commander in the usual sense, which last term. He is tall and powerfully built, and looks the soldier he is—a commander who will stop at nothing, and who expects the men under his command to exhibit the same cool bravery and character.

His manners are abrupt and his disposition is combative. The story is told that he had a controversy with Lord Charles Bessborough, during the Zulul campaign, as to the proper channel to take in descending a cañon. Sir Redvers carried his point and the steamboat passed the cañon safely.

"You see," said Sir Redvers, "mine was the right course."

"Oh," replied Sir Charles, "it was my choice, too. I only recommended the other because I knew you would oppose whoever I said."

IMPROVEMENTS SUGGESTED

For the Weather Bureau Service—Pension Talked of.

A bill has been introduced in Congress to improve the Weather Bureau Service of the United States, and bring it under the operations of the Civil Service law. The new measure provides that there shall be a competitive examination for all employees in this department of the Government, and only those who have passed the required examination shall be eligible to serve. Physical ability is one of the requirements that is essential to a place in the service. All promotions are to be based entirely on merit, and shall be made a regular order from one grade to the next.

There are nine grades, the highest for those receiving more than $2,500 and up to $6,000 inclusive, and the lowest those receiving from $360 to $720 a year. Provisions are made for the appointment of a number of new officers in the Weather Bureau, who are to be appointed, with the exception of the Chief of the Bureau, by the Secretary of Agriculture. A pension scheme is also suggested in the bill, wherein a certain percentage of each man's salary is withheld so that the Government is not put at any expense by the retirement of its employees.

Under this bill, should it become a law, employees who have reached the age of 60 years, and have been employed 30 years, may be retired upon their own request, and shall be paid 60 per cent of the highest annual salary they may have received. Those who attain the age of 65 years, and have served 35 years, are to be compulsorily retired and get a pension of 75 per cent of their pay. In the case of removal this sum, otherwise withheld as a pension, is to be forfeited. Provision is also made for a Retirement board. It is said that the chances for the passage of the bill are first class.

PACK OF WOLVES

Killing Stock of the Kentucky Mountain Farmers.

A pack of wolves is causing much uneasiness among farmers in the knobs near Horse Cave. They are very ferocious, and have killed sheep, hogs, calves and cows. They have been seen by many people. Wildcats are also a source of much alarm, not only because of their depredations among stock but because of their disposition to attack humans. A hunt is being arranged and the animals will be exterminated.

A Shocking Experience.

A Fulton young lady who has visited in no adjoining town, had a rather peculiar experience the other day. She was returning home and was tired, so, after sitting down, she leaned back and found that her head rested comfortably against something which she supposed to be part of the chair or some other fixture of the car.

Imagine her consternation as she got up to leave and found that her head had been resting on the head of a fatted drummer.—Fulton Leader.

"Walk This Way, Lady."

A young lady walked into a store in a neighboring town the other day and wanted to see some goods which happened to be in the rear end of the building. With head erect and bow-legs wobbling the polite clerk started ahead of her, saying, "Walk this way, lady." She started, hesitated and with flashing eyes exclaimed: "You cowardly little bow-legged demon, if I found a man I'd teach you better manners than to ask anybody, and especially a lady, to walk as you do."—EX.

Only Vacation Needed.

We see that Rev. J. S. Sweeney has resigned as pastor of the Christian church at Paris, Ky., to assume the duties of Auditor on the first Monday in January. Instead of resigning, the reverend gentleman should perhaps have asked a vacation of about two months from and after the first of January, or until such a time as the Legislature may get through with him.—Hustler.

THE SISTERS OF ST. FRANCIS USE PERUNA

Their Favorite Remedy for Coughs, Colds, La Grippe and Catarrh.

ST. VINCENT'S ORPHAN ASYLUM, EAST MAIN ST., COLUMBUS, OHIO.

Dr. N. B. Hartman: "Some years ago a friend of our institution recommended to us Dr. Hartman's Peruna as an excellent remedy for the la grippe, of which we then had several cases which threatened to be of a serious character."

"We began to use it and experienced such wonderful results that since then Peruna has become our favorite medicine for influenza, catarrh, coughs, colds and bronchitis."

SISTERS OF ST. FRANCIS, "St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum."

Mr. G. W. Arlidge, of Collinsville, Tex., writes: "I have been using Peruna for cough I have had for some time. It has completely cured me, and I do heartily recommend it to those suffering from coughs and colds. I will praise Peruna forever." Peruna cures la grippe.

Mr. Joseph Kirchensteiner, 87 Croton street, Cleveland, O., says: "We have used Peruna for eight years as our family medicine. During the whole of that time we have not had to employ a physician. Our family consists of seven, and we always use it for the thousand and one ailments to which mankind is liable. We have used it in cases of scarlet fever, measles and la grippe."

Whenever one of the family feel in the least ill mother always says: "Take Peruna and you will be well, or, if we do not happen to have any, we will have to get more." Peruna is always satisfactory in colds and coughs."

Free Correspondence.

The climatic diseases of winter are mainly coughs, colds, catarrh, bronchitis, tonsillitis and other catarrhal affections of the respiratory tract. Peruna is an absolute specific for all of these affections. Peruna will cure a cough or a cold in a very few days. Peruna will cure chronic catarrh even of years standing in a few weeks. Peruna should be kept in every house as a safeguard against the many affections to which the family is liable during the winter season.

In every city and large town in the United States the Sister of Charity has become a familiar object. The Catholic Sisters—sweet messengers of charity, ceaseless and indefatigable in their labors—more quietly and swiftly in and out among the people, receiving, dispensing, assisting and comforting. Neither heat nor cold, fatigue or danger, deter them from their errands of mercy. They are to be found in palaces and hovels; in the boulevard and brothel. Nothing daunts them. Nothing discourages them. Vast institutions of refuge for the homeless and hopeless have arisen in every city by their tireless labors.

By no means the least service they render helpless humanity is their dispensation of medicine. Their experience among the sick, and their anxiety to be of assistance to them, soon lead them to know the most efficient and safe remedy. It would be impossible that so popular and valuable a remedy as Peruna could have escaped their attention. Many letters have been received from institutions of this kind praising the benefit that Peruna has been to them.

Mr. Albert Brongraeber, of Mayville, Wis., says: "I want to tell you that I have been given good health by Peruna. In September, 1894, I caught a very bad cold. It settled on my lungs and I was troubled with night sweats and a terrible cough. I could not sleep part of the time. I could scarcely breathe. I began to take Peruna, and in a short time was entirely cured."

Mr. W. E. McKain, Kain, Iowa Park, Pa., who was completely restored to health by Peruna, writes as follows: "I have used your Peruna and have given it a thorough trial. I must say the result was flattering to you, and I can conscientiously recommend it for coughs, colds, and especially la grippe." Address: Dr. N. B. Hartman, Columbus, O., for a book on chronic catarrh. Sent free.

Henshaw and Ten Broeck Coming. John E. Henshaw and May Ten Broeck again make their bow this season to the public they have so long amused with an elaborate production dressed up in new trimmings, bedecked with new humor and bespangled with new ideas called Dodge's Trip to New York.

It is said to eclipse all former efforts of this funny team as a laugh-maker. Frank Tannehill, Jr., author of the "Nancy Hanks" was engaged to re-write and re-constructed the piece and he has made practically new roles for all the people. Mr. Henshaw has a fitting vehicle for his fun in the character of Howell I. Dodge of the Mosquito-ville, N. J. bank, while entertaining Miss May Ten Broeck will be seen as Zenobia Dodge, an amateur stage manageress of operetta. A number of pretty girls and funny comedians will indulge in the merry making and altogether it may be said the new comedy will prove more enticing as a laugh provoker than any other. Among the novelties will be all the latest successes from New York and London. It will be seen at Hopkinsville Opera House, Thursday, Dec. 28.

Good Time Promised.

"Si Perkins" is coming and a good time is promised to those who love good, wholesome fun. Starting last August from New York, the company played across the continent to the Pacific coast and is now on the way East. Taking advantage of the cool weather of Colorado, Manager Harpatrie deemed it good policy to play the state before closing his season. The play will be presented Monday, Jan. 1st at the Opera House. The famous "Si Perkins" band will give a street parade, beginning at 11:45 o'clock.

Mr. Taylor Moss and Miss Laura Wilkins, popular young people living in the Oak Grove neighborhood of this county, were married in Clarksville last Thursday afternoon.

AS IN A HORSE RACE.

Jack Chinn's Opinion on the Status of Electing Bets.

Louisville, Dec. 21.—Mr. Jack Chinn, the well-known horse starter, was asked in a crowd the other day what he thought about the payments of bets on the election. "It's just like a horse race," said he. "When the horses pass under the wire the judges put up the numbers, one, two, three, showing the order in which the horses passed under the wire. But you don't get your money on that. The judges consider the matter, and possibly a jockey says his horse was fouled on the back stretch. The boys are called up, the judges hear their statements, and, as it often happens, they set back the horse that first passed under the wire. Then the man that had his money on number one loses, while the other wins. It's the same in the race of Goebel and Taylor. The judges have flashed up Taylor's number, but Goebel claims a foul in the home stretch, and the legislature is going to call up the witnesses and decide which horse wins. They may disqualify Taylor for fouling, and if they do, in my opinion the sports that have their money on the Goebel horse are winners. In the eyes of a sporting man the same rule applies to a bet on a horse race, or any other kind of race."

BY AN ELEPHANT

Was Trainer Meager Killed—Tusk Thrust Through Body.

Pat Meagher, better known as "Patsey Forepaugh," the head elephant trainer in the Sells-Forpaugh circus, was killed at Columbus, O., last week by Sid, the king beast of the drove of elephants belonging to the show. The show is in winter quarters at Columbus and Meagher was putting the beasts through their daily exercise and military drills, when Sid refused to obey an order, and, when "bull hooked" he attacked his trainer, forcing his tusk through his body. Meagher was in Hopkinsville with the Sells-Forpaugh shows October 25 last and will be remembered by many who attended the circus. The elephant's life will probably pay the penalty of the fatal attack upon his keeper as that of "Chief" did in Cincinnati some years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pasmore, of Breckenridge, Colo., are here on a visit to Mrs. Pasmore's relatives.

That Cough Hangs On

will do this when everything else fails. There is no doubt about it. It nourishes, strengthens, builds up and makes the body strong and healthy, not only to throw off this hard cough, but to fortify the system against further attacks. Columbia Calendar for 1900.

The Columbia Desk Calendar, which has been regularly issued for the last fifteen years by the Pope Manufacturing Company, Hartford, Conn., makers of Columbia bicycles, is now being distributed. The company will send the calendar to any address upon receipt of five 2-cent stamps.

This calendar is unique among publications of its kind. At the top of each of the 365 inner pages appears a paragraph in prose or verse, furnished by a contributor; and those who have thus supplied the reading matter for the compilation include cyclists in nearly every country of the world. At the foot of each page are date lines, which, in clear and distinct type, denote the day of the week, month and year. Between the opening paragraph and the date lines ample blank space is left for jotting down memoranda. The cover is artistically designed and handsomely printed in colors, and a two-color introductory page informs the reader that the purpose of the calendar is to furnish a convenient memoranda pad, arranged according to the days of the year; and incidentally, to supply guidance to all seekers for information on the subject of quality in bicycles. The frame which holds the pad is arranged so that the calendar may be hung in any convenient location or placed upon the desk at any desired angle. For many years the Columbia calendar has been regarded as a fixture in thousands of homes and business offices, and this century-issue will prove a valuable addition to the series.

CHRISTMAS FIRE.

Main Street Grocery Store
Gutted Sunday Night.

Narrow Escape of Dr. H. H. Wallace

The store of the Hopkinsville Grocery Co. at 202 South Main street, was gutted by fire at 12 o'clock Sunday night. The fire was discovered by Dr. H. H. Wallace, whose sleeping room was immediately over the fire. He was aroused by the stifling smoke in his room and taking his clothing in his hands he rushed into the hall to find that the store was on fire. He groped his way to the steps and made his way across the street to the Phoenix Hotel and turned in an alarm. The fire department responded promptly and found the smoke pouring out in a great volume at the front and rear doors. A stream of water was turned in and the fire was soon under control. It was confined to the lower room, though the smoke filled the whole building and also the Moayon store adjoining. The grocery stock is almost a complete loss as the fire, smoke, water and breakage left but little to tell the tale.

The managers of the grocery are W. E. Rives and W. R. Peachler and their loss is $3000 or more. The stock was insured for $2000, $1500 with Henry & Leavell and $500 with Higgins & Son.

The building is the property of Mrs. Jno. C. Willis. It was insured for $3000 with Henry & Leavell and this will more than cover the loss. Other losers were the Moayon estate, damage by smoke, fully covered, and Dr. H. H. Wallace. The latter's furniture and medicines were badly damaged. This loss was fully covered.

The fire originated in the shelves on the South side of the room. The stock of matches was kept there, but what started the fire is a mystery.

INSOLENT NEGRO.

Fined $50 for Using Insolent Language About a Lady.

A negro named Jno. W. Miller, who came to town last week with a man introducing a new cigar, was arrested Friday for using vulgar and insolent language about a lady sitting in a carriage, intended for her to overhear. Officer Smith heard the remark and took him in charge and Judge Leavell gave him a $50 contract to crush rock for the city. Miller is a very insolent negro, who claims to be from Indiana, and a little experience with Judge Leavell's whipping post would do him about as much good as the work house sentence.

A Monster Steer.

A Shorthorn steer weighing 3,000 pounds was sold this week on the Louisville market to a local butcher at 7 1/2 cents per pound, making the total price of the steer $225.

BOLD ASSAULT.

Young Lady Seized By a Brutal Negro on the Street.

Rescued by the Timely Arrival of Those Who Heard Her Screams.

Two young ladies who started home from their work Saturday night, were assailed by a negro man on North Main street, near the Universalist church, and one of them roughly handled. She was seized by the brute in a rough manner and in the struggle that ensued, the young lady's clothing was torn and disarranged. Her screams, and the cries of her companion, attracted attention and a door near by was thrown open the negro fled in the darkness. Parties who ran to the rescue caught a negro close by, but he proved to be the wrong one and was released. The real culprit escaped.

This is one of the boldest attempts at crime that has been noted in Hopkinsville for years, and is but one of many evidences of coming trouble with the bad negroes of the city. A few capers like this will cause a telephone post to be ornamented some night with a dangling carcass.

In the short space of three days, a young lady has been cursed by a negro, a white boy murdered in cold blood and a young lady saved from attempted assault as here narrated. These things are getting entirely too common and will not be tolerated. The people of Hopkinsville are law-abiding citizens, but there is a danger-line that these mean negroes are liable at any time to pass.

Christmas Trees.

The children of the Baptist church had a Christmas tree Saturday night and a very enjoyable program was carried out before the presents were distributed.

Last night the First Presbyterian Church Sunday School had a similar celebration.
